

Tip of the Week:

Napa Valley College - McCarthy Library

Library of Congress Prints
Photographs
Online (PPOC)

A great resource for historic photos,
prints, posters and more!

Tip #10

May, 2012

Stained glass window called Arts Education
J. R. Lamb Studios [before 1928].
Library of Congress: LC-DIGppmsca-10805

We wish you a restful summer. We'll be back next fall with more tips!

Brought to you by Librarians @ McCarthy Library

- ▶ The Library of Congress offers broad public access to their collection of prints and photographs. "The collections of the Prints & Photographs Division include photographs, fine and popular prints and drawings, posters, and architectural and engineering drawings. While international in scope, the collections are particularly rich in materials produced in, or documenting the history of, the United States and the lives, interests and achievements of the American people."

<http://www.loc.gov/pictures/collections/>

Daguerreotype, Unidentified Man & Woman
Seated, Facing Forward c. 1855
Library of Congress LC-USZC4-12729

Chas. Bennett, Detroit Wolverines
c 1887. Baseball card portrait.
Library of Congress LC-DIG-bbc-003f

- ▶ Bonus Tip!
Check out Library of Congress Podcasts too!
<http://www.loc.gov/podcasts/>

- ▶ Copyright Information: "When material reproduced from the Library's collections is used in a publication, the Library requests that the reproduction number be published with credit to the Library, such as: "Library of Congress, LC-USZ62-13459." The Library does not grant or deny permission concerning the use of images. While many images are unrestricted, it is not true that all images in the Prints & Photographs collection are in the public domain. It is important to be aware of the several kinds of rights which might apply: copyright, donor restrictions, privacy rights, publicity rights, licensing and trademarks." For a discussion of fair use pertaining to the permissible use of images and other materials by educators and librarians, refer to Circular 21 found at: <http://www.copyright.gov/circs/circ21.pdf>.

We hope you found this tip helpful!
Nancy McEnery & Stephanie Grohs
sgrohs@napavalley.edu and nmcenery@napavalley.edu

Ask a Librarian

